

LISA HELLER "RED FLAGS" OUT 4.9

Navigating the world one stunning song at a time, singer/songwriter Lisa Heller is on a mission to make people feel better through her music, just as she feels better writing it. With "Red Flags" - the first single off her upcoming summer 2021 EP "Is Anyone Listening?" - Lisa turns pointing fingers towards the people pointing it themselves. "Don't pretend I'm the only one with/ Red flags, you got yours, too," she sings on the beautifully produced track.

"The song is my way of owning my own issues and trying to help others to feel like it's OK to have flaws," Lisa says. "We all have flaws, and we should all just universally accept that we all have flaws." For "Red Flags" Lisa worked virtually through the pandemic with co-writer Meghan Williams and Nashville producer Will McCoy.

Lisa has been writing music since her early teen years, when she turned to the family piano for an escape from anxiety and depression. Throughout college she continued to write songs and develop herself as an artist. She's racked up hundreds of thousands of listens on recent releases without a label backing her, and the songs on the forthcoming EP are the strongest yet.

"I've finally honed in on the sound I'm looking for. The more I write the stronger my songs become. Music is my way of figuring out who I am as a person," Lisa says. "Music has saved my life time and time again."
