

READING ROCKING RAINBOW SHOW

Innovating the arts education scene with a hybrid, one-of-a-kind book talk show into rock show, the Reading Rocking Rainbow tour is the brainchild of author/musician Jessamyn Violet and her partner and bandmate Vince Cuneo. Jessamyn and Vince (above) formed their internationally-acclaimed instrumental rock band Movie Club five years ago, earning major press with their prolific releases and award-winning music videos. When Jessamyn got her first LGBT+ novel published and wanted to put together a tour around the release, the Reading Rocking Rainbow Show was born.

Reinventing the standard book-release reading format, this show takes the shape of a late night talk show, with special guests (above), audience inclusion, humor, and a casual atmosphere. Then Movie Club rocks out with local student instrumentalists (pictured right), spoken word writers, and dancers. With over a dozen performances and a national tour under their belt, now, Jessamyn and Vince are ready to take the show to colleges to breathe inspiration into young minds about the path of an artist these days, and how it's important to be creative about each and every step of the process. With many years of experience tutoring and mentoring teens and leading seminars in the artistic process, Jessamyn knows how to capture the attention of even the most skeptical minds, and Movie Club is a band that has been known for their universal appeal.
